*Senior Fellow,
International Center for Leadership in Education (ICLE);
Dean of the School of Education,
Southern New Hampshire University*

Ray McNulty is a frequent presenter at the state, national, and international levels on the need for school systems to accept the challenges that lie ahead. He is committed to raising performance standards for both teachers and students and to building solid connections between schools and their communities. Ray believes strongly that education systems cannot wait for the children and challenges to arrive at school; rather, schools need to reach out and help forge solutions.

Prior to joining ICLE, he was a senior fellow at the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, where he worked with leading educators from around the country on improving our nation's high schools. Ray also is a past president of the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development (ASCD) and currently serves as Dean of the School of Education at Southern New Hampshire University.

An educator since 1973, Ray has been a teacher, vice principal, principal, and superintendent. From 2001–2003, he served as Vermont's education commissioner. During his tenure, Ray focused on aligning the Department of Education's work on three key issues: early education, educator quality, and secondary school reform.

Ray is the author of It's Not Us Against Them—Creating the Schools We Need.
